Overview

Visiting places connected with literature brings the excitement of recognizing homes and landscapes long familiar to the imagination, of connecting loved novels and poems with the lives and environments of the authors and seeing first hand the countryside they described. We will visit writers' homes, view original manuscripts and enjoy theatre performances. In gardens, ruins, castles, villages, churches and graveyards we will examine the effect of environment on a writer and investigate the role played by a sense of place in literary creation. You will discover how the elegant classicism of Bath influenced Jane Austen, how a bleak industrial landscape shaped D.H. Lawrence and what it was about the wild moors that fired the Brontës' imaginations. The tour begins in Chaucer's Canterbury, moves through the gentle Hampshire countryside of Jane Austen to the Dorset of Thomas Hardy. James Herriot's Yorkshire, the lakes of the Romantic poets and Shakespeare's Stratford are included. Special visits to homes not open to the general public are arranged. Childhood favourites are not forgotten. We visit Beatrix Potter's charming farmhouse and play poohsticks on the original Poohsticks Bridge. Throughout the tour our exploration of literary landscapes is enriched by dramatic readings and expert guides. Discover on this tour the literary delights of 'this blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England'!

About the Tour

Once there was a Malaysian professor of English, a great lover of Wordsworth, who on visiting England for the first time was in a taxi in London when he saw some dandelions growing on a bomb site. He stopped the taxi, got out and kneeling down by the dandelions, reverently recited Wordsworth's poem about the daffodils.

Of course, a great work of literary imagination has its own life and can be appreciated without knowledge of the objects and places mentioned in it, and yet, as this story illustrates, an understanding of the environment and experiences of the author can enormously enrich our appreciation of literature. Visiting places connected with literature brings the excitement of recognizing places we have long known in our imaginations and the thrill of gaining new perceptions into literary works.

To connect the works with the authors' lives, to see first hand the landscapes they described, to walk through the houses in which they lived and to see the original manuscripts of their novels and poems - these can only be described as awe-inspiring and magical experiences.

This tour offers you an enriching opportunity. We will follow in the footsteps of Jane Austen, Dickens, the Brontës, Shakespeare, Wordsworth, Keats, and many other classic writers. Modern writers and film directors of popular novels have also been inspired by English literary landscape. Lacock Abbey, as seen in Harry Potter & the Philosopher's Stone, and the Lyme Regis John Fowles captured so memorably in The French Lieutenant's Woman - these places have also been included in the tour. Sometimes this will be a sentimental journey as you are reminded of poems once learnt, but long forgotten, or of childhood stories. Playing poohsticks in the Hundred Acre Wood on the very bridge where 'Poohsticks' was invented will bring back many memories!

The tour begins in Canterbury and ends in Manchester. Literary shrines visited will be as varied as the authors themselves - homes, castles, gardens, theatres, ruins, National Parks, villages, churches and cathedrals are all included in the itinerary. In these places we will investigate the role played by a sense of place in literary creation and in an appreciation of literature. We will examine the effect of environment on a writer - just how did a bleak industrial landscape shape D.H. Lawrence? In what ways did the elegant classicism of Georgian Bath influence Jane Austen? How did a church charitable institution inspire Trollope, what was it about the wild moors which fired the imaginations of the Brontës? This will be a journey through varied physical landscapes, but also through the varied minds and imaginations of great writers.

We will be joined at different times by people who have written about great writers. Their expertise, talks and presentations will greatly add to our enjoyment. Susannah will brief us on all house visits and locations and will provide dramatic readings of poems, letters and extracts from novels, when appropriate.

Most of the great authors featured in this tour are dead, but there is nothing dead about the works they left behind them. Great literature should be a 'live' experience and therefore included in the tour are performances of plays and dramatic presentations. Film has brought classic novels to life for many people and so, accordingly, we will visit places used as film locations.

It is not possible to include in the tour all the literary landmarks of England. Many wonderful spots have had to be left out. The tour aims to be informative, varied and fun. You will travel in the company of people who share your fascination with good literature. Treat yourself and discover the glories of "this blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England"!

Canterbury - 4 nights

Day 1: Sunday 7 September, Heathrow – Cobham – Cooling – Rochester – Canterbury

- Churchyard, Village of Cooling
- Walking tour of Rochester (incl. Rochester Cathedral)
- Orientation Lecture

Meeting Point: Hilton Garden Inn London Heathrow Airport, at 08:30am

This morning we travel through the villages of Cobham, Chalk and Higham that are associated with Charles Dickens. Before driving on to Rochester, we make a stop at Cooling churchyard, setting for the spellbinding opening chapter of Great Expectations. From his earliest novel Pickwick Papers to his last, unfinished, Edwin Drood, Charles Dickens made Rochester a setting for his books. We will enjoy a walk through the charming higgledy-piggledy streets of the town to see the original homes of Miss Havisham and Edwin Drood, and will see the Swiss Chalet where Dickens did much of his writing. We will also see Rochester Cathedral, and will have time to explore the local bookshops.

Mid-afternoon we continue our journey south to Canterbury, following the route taken by Chaucer's 'Wife of Bath' and her fellow travellers. Leisure and relaxation after your trip is followed by an orientation lecture at your hotel. The remainder of the evening is at leisure. (Overnight Canterbury)

Day 2: Monday 8 September, Canterbury

- Morning Literary walking tour including Canterbury Cathedral
- Afternoon at leisure
- Talk with author Anna Sayburn Lane
- Evening Welcome Meal

Canterbury, founded in Roman times, is rich with associations of Chaucer, Marlowe, Dickens, Somerset Maugham and even Rupert Bear. We commence the day with a walking tour through the literary places of Canterbury, including a guided tour of Canterbury Cathedral.

The afternoon is free for you to explore Canterbury at your leisure. You might like to visit the ancient Abbey, float down the river Stour on a boat, or explore the historic High Street. This evening we shall be joined by Anna Sayburn Lane, crime fiction author of The Crimson Thread set in Canterbury. The talk will be followed by a welcome dinner at a local restaurant. (Overnight Canterbury) BD

Day 3: Tuesday 9 September, Canterbury – Rye – Burwash – Ashdown Forest – Hartfield – Canterbury

- Lamb House: Home of Henry James
- Bateman's: Home of Rudyard Kipling
- Poohsticks Bridge, Hartfield

In the morning, we will set off for Rye, Henry James's "haven on the hill-top", where he settled in Lamb House. In this house, which we will explore, he was visited by Edith Wharton, Rudyard Kipling, E.M. Forster, Joseph Conrad and E.F. Benson. Rye is a writers' paradise and a walk through its picturesque streets awakens the imagination of any receptive visitor. E.F. Benson used the town as a setting for his comic Mapp and Lucia novels, which were recently filmed in Rye, and Lamb House was home to Miss Mapp. After Henry James died, he lived in Lamb House, and after that the house was home to Rumer Godden. It is one of the most literary houses in England!

We will then travel a short distance to the village of Burwash to see Bateman's, the mellow seventeenth century home of Rudyard Kipling from 1902-36. Kipling's study has been kept exactly as he used it for thirty years. There he wrote If, which has been voted the most popular of all English poems. You will have time to explore the garden and walk to the old mill, look through the house and browse in the book shop.

Near Bateman's is Ashdown Forest, better known to children around the world as 'The Hundred Acre Wood'. A.A. Milne, who lived with his wife and Christopher Robin at Cotchford Farm, was inspired by the forest to send Pooh and Piglet hunting wozzles there. We will take a walk through the wood to the original Poohsticks Bridge, where we can all play 'Poohsticks'. (Overnight Canterbury) B

Day 4: Wednesday 10 September, Canterbury – Charleston – Sissinghurst – Canterbury

- Charleston: Home of the Bloomsbury Group
- Sissinghurst Castle Garden

This morning is dedicated to the brilliant and eccentric Bloomsbury Group. We begin with a private guided tour of Charleston, followed by some time in the garden and a Curator's talk. In 1916 the artists Vanessa Bell and Duncan Grant moved to Sussex with their unconventional household. Over the following half century Charleston became the meeting place for a group of Bloomsbury artists, writers and intellectuals, including Clive Bell, David Garnett and John Maynard Keynes, who lived at Charleston for considerable periods; Virginia and Leonard Woolf, E.M. Forster, Lytton Strachey and Roger Fry were frequent visitors. Inspired by Italian fresco painting and the Post-Impressionists, the artists decorated the walls, doors and furniture at Charleston. The rooms on show form a complete example of the decorative art of the Bloomsbury artists: murals, painted furniture, ceramics, paintings and textiles. The collection includes work by Renoir, Picasso, Derain, Matthew Smith, Sickert, Tomlin and Delacroix. The walled garden was redesigned in a style reminiscent of southern Europe, with mosaics, box hedges, gravel pathways and ponds, but with a touch of Bloomsbury humour in the placing of the statuary.

In the afternoon, we will travel the short distance to Vita Sackville-West's famous garden at Sissinghurst Castle, judged by many to be the best garden in England. We can visit the superb old library and the tower room, where Vita wrote her novels and prize-winning poems, looking out over her wonderful garden. There will also be time to view the exhibition in the barn on Vita's fascinating life and writings. (Overnight Canterbury) BL

Winchester - 3 nights

Day 5: Thursday 11 September, Canterbury – Penshurst – Winchester

- Penshurst Place & Garden
- Private tour of No. 8 College Street, Winchester

After breakfast, we travel to Penshurst Place. In 1586 a brilliant man died fighting in Holland and the literary world was the poorer for his death. Sir Philip Sidney, Elizabethan courtier and poet, was a true Renaissance man in every way. Sidney's home was Penshurst Place, seat of one of England's most powerful families, and it is hard to imagine a more lovely home and garden for a poet. After Sidney's death Ben Jonson paid tribute to him in a poem To Penshurst.

From Penshurst we travel to Winchester where we will be based for the next three nights. Winchester has many literary associations – Keats, miserable over his tuberculosis and his love for Fanny Brawne walked its streets (it was while walking through autumnal fields outside Winchester that he was inspired to write Ode to Autumn) and Izaak Walton, when he wasn't fishing, was steward to Winchester's Bishop.

Jane Austen spent the final weeks of her life at No. 8 College Street, Winchester, and died there on the 18th of July 1817. As part of the celebrations of the 250th anniversary of Austen's birth Winchester College is opening the house to the public for the first time. On a private tour, Dr Richard Foster, Keeper of Collections at Winchester College, will explain Jane's connections with Winchester and tell the story of her last days. (Overnight Winchester) BL

Day 6: Friday 12 September, Winchester – Steventon – Chawton – Winchester

- St Nicholas Church, Steventon
- Morning Tea at The Wheatsheaf Inn, Popham Lane
- Jane Austen's House, Chawton & Special Exhibition: The Art of Writing
- Chawton House Library Tour
- Special Exhibition: Sisters of the Pen, Chawton House
- Dinner at Chawton House

This morning we visit St Nicholas Church, Steventon, which Jane attended regularly with the rest of the family to listen to her father preach. The tiny church is actually outside the village centre. It is a small, simple building, dating from the 12th century and retaining some fragments of medieval wall painting. A spire has been added since Austen's lifetime, bearing a wind vane in the shape of a pen in her honour. The Steventon rectory no longer stands (it was demolished by Jane's brother Edward who built a new house for his son, William Knight, who later took over the parish). Vice President of the Jane Austen Society in the UK, Revd. Michael Kenning will provide the group with a short introductory talk at St Nicholas Church.

The Wheatsheaf Inn is where we will enjoy morning tea. Located on the road between Winchester and London, this red brick building is where Jane Austen went to collect her family's post.

Then we travel to Chawton, to a modest redbrick house which was Jane Austen's home from 1809-17. Here she re-worked and wrote her six masterpieces. We will see her bedroom and the famous squeaking door that reminded her to hide her manuscripts from prying eyes. We also view "The Art of Writing", a special exhibition to celebrate the 250th anniversary of Jane Austen.

Following lunch, we shall enjoy a private visit to Chawton Great House and its library to view its collection that focuses on rare and unique works written by women in English during the period 1600 to 1830, such as the original manuscript of Jane Austen's dramatic adaptation of Samuel Richardson's novel The History of Sir Charles Grandison.

We view another special exhibition celebrating the 250th anniversary of Jane Austen's birth. "Sisters of the Pen" explores the rich tapestry of works by women – then and now – which shaped and were shaped by Jane Austen's literary world.

In the Garden takes a deep dive into Mansfield Park, exploring the features of the Garden in Austen's work, the 'improvements' made to English estates as part of the English Landscape Movement, and the way in which the Gardens at Chawton House developed under the hands of its 19th-century women.

We will enjoy an early dinner at Chawton House.

We shall also visit Chawton church where Jane Austen's mother and sister are buried. (Overnight Winchester) BD

Day 7: Saturday 13 September, Winchester – Lyme Regis Museum – Dorchester – Winchester

- Literary Gallery, Lyme Regis Museum
- Max Gate: Home of Thomas Hardy

This morning, our coach drive takes us to the Dorset coast. "A very strange stranger it must be who does not see charms in the immediate environs of Lyme", wrote Jane Austen in Persuasion. Her memorable scene, where Louisa Musgrove falls down the steps on the Cobb, has drawn literary pilgrims such as Tennyson to Lyme for generations. We will walk Lyme's Cobb, see the house where Jane stayed and Captain Harville's cottage.

More recently, Lyme was used by John Fowles in The French Lieutenant's Woman. He became a fixture there – local historian and museum curator. We will visit the recently renovated Lyme Regis Museum, which has an excellent literary gallery.

In the afternoon we will visit Max Gate, the home Hardy designed himself (he trained as an architect) and where he and his wife lived in silent hostility together. This is where he wrote some of his most famous novels, including Tess of the D'Urbervilles and Jude the Obscure, together with much of his poetry. After a walk through Dorchester, we will then drive back to Winchester. (Overnight Winchester) B

Bath - 4 nights

Day 8: Sunday 14 September, Winchester – Hospital of St. Cross – Amesbury – Bath

- Literary Walking Tour: Keats and Watermeadow by Susannah Fullerton
- Special Exhibition: 'Beyond the Bonnets' Working Women in Jane Austen's Novels, The Arc, Winchester
- Cathedral of Winchester
- Hospital of St. Cross, Winchester

This morning we take a walk through the city's picturesque streets and follow in the footsteps of Keats by the Itchen river. Then we visit the exhibition: 'Beyond the Bonnets' Working Women in Jane Austen's Novels. Jane Austen herself was a working woman. This unique exhibition specially created for her landmark anniversary year explores the untold stories not only of working women in her novels, but those of real-life women from Regency Hampshire, whose lives mirrored her fictional characters.

After lunch we visit Winchester's Cathedral; Jane Austen is buried here and we will visit her grave.

We next travel a very short distance to the Hospital of St. Cross, where we will receive the wayfarers' dole of bread and ale. It was the Victorian scandal of this medieval almshouse's wealth which inspired Trollope to write The Warden, thus immortalising the building as Hiram's Hospital. The institution is still home to elderly gentlemen.

After our visit of the Hospital of St Cross, we continue via Amesbury to Bath, where we will be based for the next four nights. (Overnight Bath) B

Day 9: Monday 15 September, Bath – Adlestrop – Stoneleigh Abbey – Kenilworth – Bath

- Village of Adlestrop: meet author and historian Victoria Huxley
- Stoneleigh Abbey

Victoria Huxley, author of Jane Austen and Adlestrop, presents us with a talk about Jane Austen's connection to the village of Adlestrop. We see the Village Church and gain an insight into Austen's connection with this village. Adlestrop is also the setting of a famous war poem by Edward Thomas, which begins "Yes, I remember Adlestrop...". We will see the sign from the train station which his poem made famous, though the station itself has now gone.

Later in the day we visit Stoneleigh Abbey, which was inherited by a relative of Jane Austen's mother, the Reverend Thomas Leigh. Jane Austen stayed at the Abbey in August 1806 and it is thought that this stately English home may have been the model for Mansfield Park. (Overnight Bath) BL

Day 10: Tuesday 16 September, Bath

- Jane Austen Walking tour incl. the Gravel Walk, Bath
- Bath Abbey
- Lunch at the Pump Room
- Time at leisure to explore Bath

Our day begins at the heart of the city with a visit to the magnificent Bath Abbey. The present building, which celebrated its 500th anniversary in 1999, was constructed over the site of a Saxon Monastery where the first King of England was crowned in 973 AD. The fan vaulting is considered to be the finest in Britain.

Few cities have been visited and written about by so many writers – Samuel Pepys, Sheridan, Fielding, Dickens, Goldsmith, Wordsworth, Jane Austen, Sir Walter Scott and many more. Our walk will take us through the streets and houses associated with famous writers. We shall enjoy a pleasant stroll along the Gravel Walk, which runs along the rear of Brock Street and joins the Royal Crescent to the Circus in Bath and which is used by Jane Austen in Persuasion. We end our Jane Austen walking tour at the Abbey.

For lunch, we go to the Pump Room, one of Bath's most historical restaurants and referred to in many of the great works of Victorian literature. Every writer who visited Bath had to be seen at the Pump Room!

At one time considered the raciest place in England, Bath offers excellent shops and excellent museums (the Roman Bath Museum, the Costume Museum, the Holbourne Museum, the American Museum, the Building of Bath Museum, the 1 Royal Crescent Museum and the Jane Austen Centre) which can be explored at leisure during the afternoon. (Overnight Bath) BL

Day 11: Wednesday 17 September, Bath – Nether Stowey – Exmoor – Bath

- Coleridge Cottage, Nether Stowey
- Guided walk and drive through Lorna Doone country
- Visits to Exmoor towns of Porlock & Malmsmead
- Visit to Oare Church

This morning we travel to Nether Stowey where Coleridge was resident for many years and we visit the home where the poet wrote his finest poems, Kubla Khan and The Rime of the Ancient Mariner. This house is an award winning museum and it gives an all too vivid picture of what life was like for Coleridge and his wife and family.

After lunch, we visit Exmoor, an area of "outstanding natural beauty" and the setting for R.D. Blackmore's famous novel of love and violence, Lorna Doone. We will walk into the beautiful Doone Valley and see some of the places mentioned in the novel including Oare Church, where Lorna is shot on her wedding day by the villainous Carver Doone. Note: the narrow road network in the Exmoor National Park prevents access to large coaches. We shall therefore be required to sub-divide into 2 smaller vehicles (these vehicles do not have air-conditioning).

This evening we enjoy together a group meal at Emberwood Brasserie, in Bath. (Overnight Bath) BD

Stratford-upon-Avon - 2 nights

Day 12: Thursday 18 September, Bath – Blaise Hamlet – Tintern Abbey – Lacock – Stratford

- Blaise Hamlet
- Tintern Abbey
- Lacock Abbey & Lacock Village

This morning we drive to Blaise Hamlet, which is a unique, picturesque early 19th-century housing project, located on a site which dates back to medieval times. Later in the morning we cross the border to Wales after a bit more than an hour's drive, and visit scenic Tintern Abbey. Located on the Wye river, Tintern Abbey is one of Wales' most significant ruins sites. The Abbey dates back to the 12th century, and in later years inspired William Wordsworth's poetry.

After lunch, we travel to Lacock Abbey. Lacock Abbey is situated adjacent to the village of Lacock on the River Avon and is one of the few Abbeys in England left in tact, after most of them were destroyed during the reign of Henry VIII and has been the setting of films such as Harry Potter and The Other Boleyn Girl. (Overnight Stratford-upon-Avon) B

Day 13: Friday 19 September, Stratford – Shottery – Stratford

- Walking Tour of Stratford
- Shakespeare's grave at Holy Trinity Church
- The Shakespeare Properties (Birthplace, New Place and Hall's Croft (exterior))
- Anne Hathaway's Cottage in Shottery
- Evening Performance Measure For Measure by Shakespeare at the Royal Shakespeare Theatre

Stratford's fame began almost the day Shakespeare died. Since then, legions of literary pilgrims have descended upon the Warwickshire market town where he grew up and retired to. We spend the morning completing a guided walk of the town, taking in the Shakespeare memorial statue and the poet's grave with its memorable curse.

There is then free time to explore the Shakespeare properties at leisure – his Birthplace, Hall's Croft (exterior) and New Place, as well as the Shakespeare bookshops. In the afternoon we travel a mile by coach to Anne Hathaway's Cottage in Shottery. The cottage belonged to the prosperous Hathaway family and was the pre-marital home of William Shakespeare's wife, Anne. Although referred to as a cottage, it is actually a substantial, twelve-roomed, Elizabethan farmhouse. Externally the building with its low thatched roof, timbered walls and lattice windows has changed very little since Shakespeare went courting there.

This evening, we attend a performance of Measure For Measure by William Shakespeare at the Royal Shakespeare Theatre. When her brother falls foul of the state's rigid morality laws, Isabella is sent to plead for his life. But soon the complex relationship between power and private citizen threatens to end her life as she knows it. Emily Burns directs this razor-sharp thriller of hypocrisy and corruption. (Overnight Stratford-upon-Avon) B

York - 2 nights

Day 14: Saturday 20 September, Stratford – Newstead – DH Lawrence – York

- Newstead Abbey
- D.H. Lawrence Birthplace Museum, Eastwood
- D.H. Lawrence Guided Walking Tour, Eastwood

This morning we travel to Newstead Abbey, the ancestral home of the Byrons which was inherited by Lord Byron when he was only ten. Here we will explore the extensive house and gardens, see the blasphemous monument he erected to his dog and the bedroom where he carried on numerous affairs (including one with his half-sister!).

Next we travel to Eastwood, the "country of my heart" for D.H. Lawrence. Lawrence was born in Eastwood, a small mining town, and his birthplace is now a museum. As the D.H. Lawrence Centre is permanently closed with most of its collection now housed at the Birthplace Museum, we will be taking a guided walking tour of significant D.H. Lawrence sites around Eastwood instead.

We travel on to York, a magnificent cathedral city rich with literary associations. (Overnight York) B

Day 15: Sunday 21 September, York

- Leisure time for exploring York's Museums
- York Minster & The Shambles

The morning is at leisure for you to explore York's museums. We meet at the hotel after lunch and start our walking tour. The ancient streets were the 'stage' for some of the earliest plays in English, such as The York Mystery Cycle, so we will explore those streets. The Shambles, often called Europe's best preserved medieval street, has been in continuous existence for over 900 years. The name 'Shambles' comes from the Saxon 'Fleshammels', which means "the street of the butchers", for it was here that the city's butchers' market was located.

Then we visit York's superb Minster, northern Europe's largest Gothic cathedral. It was visited by Anne Brontë only a few days before her death and was where novelist Laurence Sterne preached sermons. After the visit, you may stay for Evensong.

The afternoon is at leisure for you to further explore York's museums. You may wish to join Susannah for an optional evening walk to see some of York's historic buildings lit up by night. (Overnight York) B

Keswick - 3 nights

Day 16: Monday 22 September, York – Thirsk – Keswick

- 'The World of James Herriot' Centre, Thirsk

We leave York and set off for the beautiful Lake District, a UNESCO World Heritage area of rugged mountains, green valleys and fine lakes which has provided inspiration to so many poets. En route we call in at the bustling market town of Thirsk. James Alfred Wight (James Herriot) moved to Thirsk to work as a country vet with Donald Sinclair in July 1940. Here we shall visit his original surgery 'Skeldale House' located at No. 23 Kirkgate which has now been turned into 'The World of James Herriot' Centre.

We continue on to the grey-stone Lake District town of Keswick. You can enjoy a guided early evening stroll down to the lake to see Beatrix Potter's Squirrel Nutkin's Island and the John Ruskin monument, before enjoying a group meal at the hotel. (Overnight Keswick) BD

Day 17: Tuesday 23 September, Keswick – Castlerigg – Hawkshead – Grasmere – Keswick

- Castlerigg Stone Circle
- The Grammar School, Hawkshead
- Dove Cottage, Grasmere
- Tombstone of William Wordsworth, St. Oswald's Church, Grasmere
- Reception at Rydal Mount House and Garden

This morning we begin our trail of Wordsworth, supreme poet of the Lakes. Just outside Keswick we visit the Castlerigg Stone Circle, one of the most visually impressive prehistoric monuments in Britain, consisting of thirty-eight stones in a circle approximately thirty metres in diameter. Within the ring is a rectangle of a further ten standing stones. The construction contains significant astronomical alignments. You will see why the spot appealed to Keats and Wordsworth.

A short drive will take us to Hawkshead, still the same tiny village of higgledy-piggledy houses, archways and squares beloved by Wordsworth and Beatrix Potter. Whilst at school in Hawkshead, William lodged with Ann Tyson and her husband. Ann Tyson's cottage is a private home, which we will see during our walk around the town. We will visit the fascinating Grammar School where young William learned the classics – one of the desks still bears his graffiti. The Hawkshead legal office where Beatrix Potter's husband once worked is now a gallery, which we can visit to admire illustrations from her delightful tales.

We travel Dove Cottage where he settled with Dorothy in 1799. Built in the early seventeenth century, with its oak-panelled hall and floors of Westmorland slate, Dove Cottage remains very much as it was when Wordsworth lived there. Next door is an exhibition centre with displays on Wordsworth and his contemporaries.

We then visit Rydal Mount, Wordsworth's final home near Ambleside. We might see daffodils at this time of year, and we can walk where he trod with Coleridge, see his study and walk in the delightful gardens which he landscaped and designed himself. The current owners will give us a private tour of the house and an evening reception of wine and Grasmere gingerbread. We then return to our hotel for dinner. (Overnight Keswick) BLD

Day 18: Wednesday 24 September, Keswick – Cockermouth – Ambleside – Hawkshead – Brantwood – Keswick

- Wordsworth House and Garden, Cockermouth
- Boat excursion on Lake Windermere from Ambleside to Lakeside on the Arthur Ransome literary trail
- Hill Top Farm – Beatrix Potter Museum, nr. Sawrey, Hawkshead
- Brantwood: John Ruskin's Home (evening reception)

We begin the day with a tour of the Wordsworth House and Garden, a Georgian house which was the birthplace and childhood home of the Romantic poet. We then drive down to Ambleside for lunch, before going on a full length cruise of Lake Windermere. The town of Windermere was where Arthur Ransome, author of the much loved Swallows and Amazons, went to school. Lake Windermere inspired his famous adventure story for children.

From Lakeside, where we disembark from the steamer, we drive up to Hilltop Farm, where Beatrix Potter lived from 1905. This seventeenth-century farmhouse contains her personal furniture and china (many of these items were replicated by her in her book illustrations) and original sketches and manuscripts. Finally, we head across to Brantwood, located on Coniston Water. Brantwood is the home of influential art critic and writer, John Ruskin. Here, with glorious views of the lake, we will enjoy an early evening reception. (Overnight Keswick) BD

Manchester - 2 nights

Day 19: Thursday 25 September, Keswick – Casterton – Cowan Bridge – Haworth – Manchester

- The Brontë Sisters and Cowan Bridge School
- Brontë Parsonage Museum, Haworth
- Haworth Church and Graveyard
- Walk to Haworth Moor

Today we explore places connected with one of the most famous of all literary families – the Brontës. Cowan Bridge is the site of the Clergy Daughter’s School that the Brontë sisters attended and it is where they underwent harsh privations. Charlotte immortalized it as Lowood School in Jane Eyre.

We then continue on to Haworth, home of the Brontë sisters. Many parts of the village have not changed since their time – one can still enjoy a drink in Branwell Brontë’s local pub The Black Bull, visit the church, and walk the moors which fired the imaginations of the sisters and which feature so memorably in their works.

After lunch we will visit the Parsonage Museum, packed with memorabilia and treasured Brontë artefacts, and then visit the overly full graveyard to hear a selection of Brontë poems, read by Susannah. All the Brontës, apart from Anne (who is buried at Scarborough), are buried in what was the old church. This was demolished, apart from the tower, in 1879, but the Brontë family vault was left undisturbed.

If the weather is not “wuthering” we shall take one of the many footpaths that lead onto Haworth Moor. The footpaths lead to Brontë Falls, Brontë Bridge and the Brontë Stone and, eventually, to Top Withens, a ruin on a windy hillside, thought to be the setting of Wuthering Heights. It would take too long to reach those sites, but we can stroll far enough to experience the atmosphere of the moors which meant so much to the three sisters.

In the mid-afternoon we continue our journey south to Manchester. The evening will be at leisure. (Overnight Manchester) B

Day 20: Friday 26 September, Manchester – Knutsford – Manchester

- Tatton Park, Knutsford
- Elizabeth Gaskell House, Manchester
- Literary tour of Manchester
- Farewell Dinner, Manchester

The last day of our tour will be spent exploring places associated with the great Victorian novelist Elizabeth Gaskell. In her novel North and South Gaskell renamed the city ‘Milton’. We will travel to the charming Cheshire town of Knutsford, where she grew up, and which she turned into ‘Cranford’ in her novel of that name. Tatton Park, a stunning house and estate, was the house she had in mind for the aristocrats in Wives and Daughters and it was used in the film adaptation of that novel. We will enjoy a bespoke tour and get to see the magnificent library with its 5000 books and rare art collection. There will be time to explore the gardens before we enjoy lunch there.

On our return to Manchester, we will drive to Elizabeth Gaskell’s museum for a tour of the house. This is one of the newest of England’s literary museums and it was ‘saved’ for the nation thanks to the popularity of Gaskell’s novels as TV adaptations.

Our last literary experience is a coach tour of the bustling city of Manchester. Anthony Burgess grew up in Manchester, Marx and Engels wrote The Communist Manifesto there, and Thomas de Quincey was born in the city. Our day ends with a farewell dinner for the tour. (Overnight Manchester) BD

- Tour concludes in the morning
- At leisure/Check out
